

The SC Small Business Chamber of Commerce and the SC Primary Healthcare Association are working together to get information to as many businesses as possible in SC regarding recent changes in Federal Regulations that can save businesses money on employee health insurance or, if the business does not have group health insurance, make it possible for employees to immediately get excellent health insurance at very affordable rates through the federal Health Insurance Marketplace.

A new federal rule that went into effect in January of this year can save businesses with employee group health insurance money in two ways:

- Eliminating the employer's share of the premiums the company is paying for family health insurance policies for qualified workers.
- Reducing future premium hikes for the group resulting from healthcare costs of family members of your employees with family coverage.

The family members of your employees still have good health insurance, just not through your business group health plan.

If the company does not provide employee group health insurance, it can, through the new ICHRA program created by Congress in 2020, make it possible for their employees to immediately have access to excellent health insurance coverage at very affordable rates through the Health Insurance Marketplace.

Neither of our organizations sell insurance. We just want to help employers and employees obtain affordable health insurance.
